Personal Learning History: Reflection on Troublesome Knowledge

Write

Think about an important concept that you struggled to master when you were first learning the discipline you now teach.

What was so troublesome about this concept?

What are some high points and low points in your own disciplinary learning history that stand out to you?

Pair Share

Please share some highlights of your reflection with a partner. Make sure that each partner has had a chance to share uninterrupted. Be ready to share some highlights from your conversation with the whole group.
