Bringing Home the Mimosas (Next Steps)

- It’s 2025; Your school has earned national recognition as a leader in general education. What did we do to get there?
- Your largest local employer testifies to your state legislature that while they have gotten more graduates from your institution, they find that fewer of them have the employability skills they need (e.g., communication, critical thinking, quantitative reasoning). What went wrong?
- Your institution just earned a $100 million grant to improve general education at the college. What five priorities should be funded from this award?
- Your regional accreditor just put your institution on warning for concerns over general education. Why did that happen?
