

"We Are All Confused, Contradictory, and Beautiful Messes":

Engaging Identity and Difference through Storytelling,
Performance, and Sustained Campus Dialogues

Dr. Cecilia Lucero

Academic Advisor, Co-Director of Balfour-Hesburgh Scholars Program

Edithstein Cho

Founder of Stage for Change; Founder & Director of Show Some Skin—Univ. of Notre Dame

Reflections from ND Show Some Skin

Center Your Story: Claim Your Identity

Performance Survey Responses

"I couldn't relate to a lot of the stories, but they were still powerful and made me think about things I say/do that may be unintentionally hurtful."

"As a professor, it made me happy to see the less homogenous sides of ND."

"I think we forget sometimes that diversity comes in all shapes and sizes, and sometimes, it isn't visible to the eye."

"As a white male, I'll admit, I didn't think that many of these issues existed. But, now I know better."

"I really appreciated the discussions on sexuality, a notably taboo subject at ND."

Questions?

CONTACT

Dr. Cecilia Lucero

clucero@nd.edu

Edith Cho

stage4change@gmail.com
echo1@alumni.nd.edu